Construction (Design and Management) Regulations 2007

A One Day Workshop on the Role of the Principal Contractor

Aims

The aim of this one day workshop is to provide delegates with a working knowledge of the revised regulations with special emphasis on the role of the Principal Contractor.

Objectives

At the end of the workshop delegates should be able to:

State legal obligations required by CDM 2007

State the responsibilities, roles and functions of each of the parties in CDM

Identify the specific requirements of the Principal Contractor

Identify organisational changes and documentation to be created by the Principal Contractor

Programme

Introductions

Overview of regulations

Revised and new roles within CDM

What information the Principal Contractor will need and what they should provide

The Principal Contractor's relationship with the CDM Co-ordinator

The Principal Contractor's responsibilities for contractor appointment and management

Competence assessment of contractors and employees

Civil liability of the regulations

End Test

The Workshop will encourage discussion on the roles of the parties within the regulations and the development and content of the documentation required. This will be through the application of case studies and syndicate activity.
